

When comparing all four clades of birds of all species, they will show distinct morphological differences among all regions due to location. Based on their location, they will all show different characteristics that will be further explained later. Data will be based off of the wing length, tail length, bill length, and bill depth.